PROHIBITION REPEAL BILL APPROVED BY COMMITTEE, PROVIDING LOCAL OPTION ON LIQUOR PACKAGE STORES

CRAYEY IS OUSTED FROM STATE POST BY VOTE OF HOUSE

Bill Is Passed Creating New Department for Development of Natural Resources of Georgia in All Sections of State.

VOTE OF 152 TO 21 IS POLLED ON BILL

Four Divisions Provided To Promote Wild Life, Forestry, Mining and System of State Parks.

The Rivers-sponsored bill creating a state department of natural resources and eliminating the present departments of game and fish and forestry and geology, a bill which will legislate Game and Fish Commissioner Z. D. Crayey out of the office, was passed yesterday in the house of representatives.

The vote was 152 to 21. The house gave its approval to the measure after a bitterly contested battle to eliminate the Game and Fish Department from the effects of the bill. An amendment to this effect was defeated, 108 to 25. Sponsors of the amendment stated it was designed to continue Crayey in office.

The bill, sponsored by Representatives Fowler, of Treutlen county; Parker, of Colquitt, and Elliott, of Muscogee, was termed by Representative Fowler to be "the most forward-looking step ever taken by the state of Georgia toward the development of its natural resources." Fowler is chairman of the house committee on conservation.

The fight to save Crayey was led by Representative Preston of Bulloch county, whose amendment which would have permitted the commissioner to continue in office contained 40 signatures when it was introduced and obtained only 23 votes when it was brought up for action. While the house was considering the bill, 16 of the 40 representatives signing the measure approached the clerk's desk and had their names stricken.

Crayey in Gallery.

Crayey, who was scolded by Governor Rivers in a recent speech, for his alleged activity against the bill, was seen in and out of the house gallery as the debate raged.

Under the terms of the bill, in support of which Governor Rivers personally appeared before the conservation committee, there will be set up four distinct and separate divisions of the natural resources department which will co-ordinate their efforts toward promoting Georgia, but which will be separately financed.

The first of these will be the division on conservation.

8TH SEVERED BODY IS FOUND IN OHIO IN UNION SLAYING

Cleveland Intensifies Hunt for Sex-Crazed, Surgically-Skilled Man.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The discovery of a woman torso-slaying victim—Cleveland's eighth since September, 1934—sent police tonight in search of a sex-crazed, surgically-skilled maniac they believed responsible.

A fireman came upon the torso, cleverly severed from the arms, head and legs, on the shore of Lake Erie in Cleveland's east side.

At almost the same spot one previous victim was found. Five other mutilated bodies were left in the last day in Kingsbury Run section, a few miles away.

The body found today, Police Lieutenant William Sargent said, apparently had not been in the water more than a day or two.

Clean Dissection.

The dissection had been cleanly made, he pointed out in support of the police theory that the same person was responsible for all the eight

3,000 Workers Flee In Two-Hour Blaze

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich., Feb. 23.—(UP)—Fire in the upholstery division of the Briggs Manufacturing Company, builders of bodies for the Ford Motor Company, was brought under control tonight after more than 11 hours of battle by the plant.

All available apparatus of the Highland Park fire department battled for almost two hours to check flames that swept through highly inflammable upholstery materials and threatened to engulf the plant.

AMENDED ROAD PATROL MEASURE IS PASSED BY SENATE, 32 TO 5

Bill Raises Bitter Debate;
House Vote Expected
Early Next Week.

An amended state highway patrol bill was passed by the senate yesterday by a vote of 32 to 5 and sent back to the house of representatives for concurrence in the changes which were worked out by a special committee. The amended bill contains no numbers, are designed to eliminate friction between the patrol, city and county peace officers and make general police work a secondary feature of the organization set up in the bill.

Notified of the senate changes, Speaker Roy V. Harris said that the house would work out the changes on "the first part of next week."

Opponents attacked the highway bill as containing "dynamite" and as being "iniquitous." Still stronger criticism, however, came from some of the senators who voted for it.

Senator Thrasher, of Watkinsville, explained his "aye" vote, charging Governor Rivers had signed his political death warrant" when he puts his signature to the measure. He said he voted for it because "some sort" of a patrol measure was needed.

"You are setting up as corrupt a machine as was ever set up in Georgia," Thrasher said. "I am in favor of a patrol bill and drivers' license, but not the combination of the two."

No Returns Claimed.

"You are setting up 120 tax collectors to ride the roads with no restrictions whatever. The patrol will have to escort a new Governor to the platform two years from now."

The house committee amended the bill by placing the issuance of and collection for drivers' licenses in the hands of the State Revenue Commission rather than in the patrol.

Senator Aultman, of Byron, who voted against the bill, said he was committed to support a driver's license bill. He was pledged to "pass a measure which contained 'enough dynamite in it to blast us all and the state, too."

Senator Whitehead, of Carlton, another who voted "no," said:

"This bill has got a dollar mark on

Old-Age Tax Returns Due on February 28

Remember that old-age benefit tax returns for January are due February 28. J. P. McGrath, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association, cautioned yesterday.

He also reminded that March 15 is the date for filing state income tax, excess profits tax, surtax, unjust enrichments tax, undistributed profits and gift tax.

Payment of the entire tax, or first quarterly installment, falls due March 15.

It from beginning to end. It sets up an overhead official staff drawing from $30,000 to $50,000 and there will be only about 65 men to do patrol duty.

"It is the most iniquitous legislation I ever seen passed."

Named Five-Man Group.

The bill, as passed by the senate, sets up a five-man public safety department composed of the Governor, the comptroller general, the chairman of the revenue commission, the chairman of the highway department, and a member to be selected by the Governor from a list of five nominations by the Georgia Peace Officers' Association.

The peace officers' representative was added by the senate committee.

The board would select a director of public safety at $6,000 a year to actively head the patrol, which would be composed of 80 to 120 men enlisted for a three-year period.

Licenses would be required of all drivers in the state at $1 for a two-year period examinations to be given by the patrolmen in each county.

Under a senate committee amendment, the Governor would have power to suspend the drivers' license provisions "pending the organization of the department of public safety" or in order to permit the granting of licenses without undue hardship upon applicants."

Patrolmen would engage in the enforcement of general laws only when called in by local officials, but would be free to enforce state traffic regulations even outside of cities.

Judges of the various state courts would have the right to suspend or cancel drivers' licenses under a senate amendment. As the bill was originally drafted and passed by the house, this power would have been solely in the department of public safety.

Senator Whitehead, of Carlton, another who voted "no," said:

"This bill has got a dollar mark on edge of how much income can be expected from liquor, if the bill should pass.

Twenty-eight members of the committee were present at the opening of the session when Wilmer D. Lanier, of Richmond county, put a motion to determine "the sense of this committee in reporting out some kind of repeal bill."

On a voice vote, there were no dissenters to action pointed toward repeal.

Lanier also submitted an amendment to the Hastings bill defining hotels eligible to sell mixed drinks as those with at least 25 guest rooms.

The motion was carried, and the restriction was added to another, requiring any hotel to be in business at least a year before receiving a license.

Hastings told the committee the motion would "leave municipalities the greatest latitude in handling stores, deciding where they are to be placed, and in regulating them."

At Control Local.

"Under this bill," he continued, "there is no control in the state at the control is Atlanta, but all control lies with the local communities."

He recalled that the last general assembly had before it two liquor bills similar to the ones now pending.

"The assembly then refused to pass a monopoly plan," he said, "but did pass a license system."

The 1933 measure called for repeal by referendum, and the voters of the

Dry Law Repeal Leaders Discuss Liquor Bills With House Committee

Authors of two prohibition repeal measures are shown discussing their bills before the house temperance committee shortly before the body voted favorably on the package store license system proposed by William G. Hastings, of Atlanta.

man, of Valdosta; Hastings; F. C. Gross, of Toccoa, and Rufus V. Jones, of Cartersville. Coleman and Gross were authors of the state monopoly system which the committee rejected in passing Hastings' bill, 20-8. tion committee, said he considered this one of the most important sections of the bill.

"When we realize how many thousands of people cross over Georgia each year without stopping except to eat we realize how many dollars we are losing each year by our failure to have something to attract these people," Fowler said. "We believe the development of a system of state parks, which located in a place of interest, will bring much more business into the state."

The bill also provides that no municipal corporation could levy an additional tax on these professions.

HORNSBY BEFORE JURY ON POLICE CHANGES

Chief Called Before Body for Questioning About Department Reform.

For the second time in as many days, Chief M. A. Hornsby, of the Atlanta police, was called before the Fulton grand jury for questioning on general police topics. Following the conference, Chief Hornsby announced he had no comment to make.

It was understood, however, the jurors sought information as to changes in the police department under his administration and the vice clean-up campaign which had been investigated. A high speed liquor chase and it was intimated the chief was asked to comment on these.

Superintendent Jere Wells, of the Fulton county school system, appeared before the jury and requested they incorporate in their general presentments Friday recommendations urging the federal government to favor a loan on application for a $200,000 loan sought for the building of three new county schools. The application has been pending for some time.

Statistical data on the county school system for the years 1924 and 1936, listing the number and types of schools, operating costs, enrollment figures and the number of teachers, were furnished the jury at their request.

The grand jury, after finishing routine business yesterday morning, returned in the afternoon to discuss presentations and to pass on questions they wish to incorporate in them. Presentments are to be returned Friday, after which the grand jury will be dismissed.

CHILD LABOR BILL DELAYED

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—(P)—Final action on ratification of the federal child labor amendment in President Roosevelt's home state appeared likely tonight to be delayed at least two weeks. The Republican-nominated assembly judiciary committee withheld decision on the long-pending proposal.

SANDHOGS' WORK TERMED PERILOUS

Men Who Work Under Rivers Never Reckoned in Murder To Bring Publicity.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—Life is held cheaply by the sandhogs—the men who work in compressed air under cities and rivers—but they had never reckoned in murder to bring them into the public eye.

A "honey" trap in a cave-in in a land tunnel or even "the air" might some day have got Norman Redwood, business agent of the sandhogs' biggest union, Local 102 of the International Laborers' Union.

But to be riddled to death by a crazed criminal.

Redwood's pals seemed bewildered by the fate of their leader on the porch of his Taney (N. J.) home last Friday night.

Charles Hendren, president of Local 102, recalled many dangerous jobs he had shared over the world with the Englishman. Redwood, since they joined, had been a member of Local 102.

Today their union sends sandhogs anywhere and everywhere where men are needed to work in "the air."

Casualties are commonplace. A "blowout" a few weeks ago sucked two men out of a tunnel under New York's East river and stuck the men 60 feet under the river's surface.

The other survived—he was shot like a bullet to the surface.

FLOOD CONTROL GROUP ASKS 39 RESERVOIRS

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 23. (P)—The Ohio valley conservation flood control congress forwarded to President Roosevelt a resolution asking for the immediate construction of 39 flood control reservoirs in the Ohio river basin.

The reservoirs would be placed on tributaries in the Pittsburgh area, on the Muskingum river in Ohio, and on the Kanawha river watershed in West Virginia.

TEXAS SENATE REJECTS U. S. CHILD LABOR BILL

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 23.—(P)—The Texas senate rejected today a resolution to ratify the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

The vote of 10 to 19, with one pair, defeated the proposal for this session of the legislature. The house of representatives had not acted.

HAPSBURGS REPORTED AS SUBJECT OF PARLEY In Germany Stops

Nazi Minister Signs Pact to Award Austria Domestic Freedom.

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—(P)—Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, German foreign minister, left for Berlin tonight, and his departure was a fitting conclusion for the two tense days he had spent in the Austrian capital.

Several persons were slightly injured in street clashes between Nazis and members of the Fatherland Front, the government party, as crowds thronged the streets in the vicinity of the beflagged railway station where Von Neurath entered.

Thirty were reported arrested as Nazis attempted to demonstrate clashed with thousands of police and Fatherland Front members.

No Mention of Hapsburg.

A government communiqué issued tonight on the talks between the reich's foreign minister and Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg failed to mention the restoration of the Hapsburgs.

Results of the conference, the communiqué said, included a decision to establish a committee on Austro-German cultural relations.

Official circles admitted today, however, that the Hapsburg restoration has become a real question in Austria.

An unconfirmed report said Germany had proposed a pact among that nation, Austria, Hungary and Italy, guaranteeing Austria independence and freedom from interference in her domestic affairs. The report also said the pact would provide that the Vienna government give up any plans it might have for restoration of the monarch.

Objections Discussed.

Germany's well-known objection to restoration of the Hapsburgs is believed to have been the subject today of the Schuschnigg-Von Neurath clash.

Both before they met, an authorized spokesman said that developments bearing on the return from exile of young Archduke Otto to the throne might be expected in six months.

Germany's opposition to the return of Otto, and Italy's lukewarm attitude toward it, are regarded as two stumbling blocks.

Despite these factors, many observers agreed it would be only a matter of time before Austria again will have a throne.

ATLANTANS TO STUDY POLICE RADIO SYSTEMS

Two radio technicians of the Fulton county and Atlanta police forces will leave this morning to inspect two-way radio systems in use in western, midwestern and southern cities. Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, announced last night.

Making the trip will be A. P. Dodd, chief mechanic of Fulton county, and Kirk Simmons, chief engineer of the city of Atlanta's broadcasting station.

Instruction to Simmons and Dodd are that they investigate the advantages of various systems as used by police departments. Johnson declared.

MRS. J. C. HAYES DIES AT RESIDENCE HERE

Mrs. J. C. Hayes, prominent member of St. Paul Methodist church, died yesterday afternoon at the residence, 507 Broyles street, S. E., at the age of 53.

Mrs. Hayes was a member of the Woman's Circle and the Missionary Society of the church, of which she had been a long-time member.

Slaton said this registration requirement was adopted by judges of the superior courts at a recent meeting.

The judges also approved a measure requiring all applicants to study law 90 weeks prior to their examination for admission to the bar.

There were no regulations governing eligibility for bar examinations prior to adoption of these rules.

APPRaisERS DISCUSS PRICES ON KENNESAW

Executive Session Held in Effort To Secure Park Acreage for U. S.

Appraisers for Kennesaw mountain land sought by the government for a national memorial park yesterday met in executive session here to discuss their recommendation, to be made to Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

The executive session followed two public hearings, one held in Atlanta and the other in Marietta.

Property valuations were estimated at prices ranging from $5 and $35 an acre to $400 an acre. The property is understood to be owned by the Kennesaw Mountain Battlefield Association, a private stock corporation.

An appropriation of $100,000 was made by congress for the purpose of setting up a park. It reverts to the treasury if not used by July 1.

The land extends across the peaks of Big and Little Kennesaw mountains. An approximately $15,000 is said to be available for purchase of the 440-acre tract in dispute, with the remainder needed for purchase of additional land up to 1,000 acres and actual work on the park property. The government has refused to meet what it terms excessive demands for the land.

Appointment of the appraisers was ordered by Judge Underwood.

BENTLEY INDICTED

3 True Bills Returned as Shooting Aftermath.

Charles G. Bentley was indicted yesterday by the Fulton grand jury for assault with attempt to murder his wife, Mrs. Mary Bentley, as she was riding on an Atlanta & West Point railroad train February 15. Two additional true bills were returned charging Bentley with shooting inside a moving car and pointing a pistol without license. He is being held at Fulton tower under $1,000 bond. Mrs. Bentley is reported recovering at Grady hospital.

At the time of the shooting, the train was passing through College Park and the assault was investigated by Captain R. E. Johnson, of the College Park police, who reported Bentley shot his wife when she took her children with the intention of returning to her parents in Alabama.

FIRE BOARD REFUSES PENSION FOR CORNETT

Lieutenant J. H. Cornett, veteran of 16 years on the fire department, was denied a pension yesterday, the firemen's pension board, which held that he is now totally disabled. Cornett's application in April was declared vacant as of March 1 by the board of firemen at its last meeting and Hugh McDonald was elected lieutenant in his place.

Cornett appealed the decision of the pension board,

COURT ALLOWS DATA ON 2 OTHER DEATHS IN INSURANCE SLAYING

North Carolina Father Goes on Trial, Accused of Murdering Daughter.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Feb. 23.—(P)—Evidence by which the prosecution claimed it could show Edgar Leroy Smoak, 39, killed two other persons in the insurance business, was admissible today at his trial on a charge of poisoning his 16-year-old daughter.

The railroad carpenter is on trial only in connection with the death in December of the daughter, Annie Thelma, but Solicitor John J. Burney said the state wanted to show that Smoak poison his two daughters, as well as his girl, to collect small insurance policies.

Judge J. H. Clement held the evidence could be introduced for the purpose of showing motive.

Burney, however, deferred evidence regarding the death of Smoak's second wife in July, 1935, until Dr. Haywood Taylor, Duke hospital toxicologist, takes the stand, probably tomorrow.

Dr. Taylor analyzed the stomachs of Annie Thelma and the second wife, after their bodies were exhumed, and reported finding traces of the deadly poison, a bottle of which, it was testified today, was found in Smoak's locker at the railroad shops.

While the defendant sat intent on the proceedings, the county grand jury returned another indictment charging him with poisoning the second wife, Mrs. Alice Mason Smoak. The first

Congressmen Urged To 'Keep in Shape'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—An appeal by members of congress to guard their health came today from Dr. George W. Calver, the capitol physician, following the death of Representative James P. Buchanan, of Texas, fourth house leader to succumb since the New Deal began.

"Men members," said Dr. Calver, "lead a sedentary life, working maybe 20 hours a day under a heavy mental strain and not getting any exercise or getting out and getting air and oxygen into their blood."

It is more unreasonable to expect a man to devote 20 hours a day to his work than it is for a man to be efficient instead of sacrificing himself and depriving the nation of his experience and ability.

"The best example of the benefits of that is the man in the White House."

wife, Annie Thelma's mother, died in 1922.

Jack Penny, 22-year-old pharmacy clerk testified today that Smoak came to his store November 19 and bought an eighth of an ounce of the kind of poison the state claims caused the deaths.

SMYRNA MAN INDICTED FOR FRAUDULENT SALE OF TALMADGE'S PAPER

Thirty-Four Other True Bills Are Returned by U. S. Grand Jury.

Thirty-five indictments were returned yesterday by the federal grand jury, including one against William Hudson, of Smyrna, on charges of using the mails to promote fraud in connection with subscriptions to former Governor Talmadge's Statesman and The Government News, said to be edited by W. W. Matthews, former member of the Atlanta board of education.

The indictment charged that Hudson, also known as "Mr. Howard," falsely represented himself as representative and agent of the Statesman Publishing Company and called on friends and acquaintances of "Ex-Governor Eugene Talmadge, principally textile manufacturers," and represented that he was the former Governor's personal representative in soliciting subscriptions. He is also alleged to have said that Talmadge was discontinuing publication of the Statesman but intended publishing a paper to be known as The Government News. He is charged with seeking subscriptions to this publication and renting a post-office box to receive The Government News mail.

According to the indictment, Hudson accepted an order for 25 copies of the Statesman at $1 per copy from George H. Janier, of West Point.

Talmadge Testifies.

Talmadge appeared before the grand jury as a witness. Before entering the grand jury room, Talmadge told officers, they said, that Hudson "was one of the hardest men to fire he ever had."

Twenty-four grand juries were convened following return of the indictments to Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood. Yesterday afternoon they visited the Atlanta federal penitentiary in company with District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp to learn first-hand conditions at the prison.

Twenty-three of the indictments charged violation of the internal revenue liquor laws, involving 35 persons.

Indicted for violation of the national motor vehicle theft act was James Lexens, of Decatur, arrested recently in the roundup of an automobile theft gang. Three of his alleged associates escaped from the DeKalb county jail Monday afternoon. He immediately entered a plea of guilty to one count of the two-count

SALES TAX MEASURE IS SIGNED BY GRAVES

Alabama Legislature Votes Down Proposals for State Salary Increases.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Governor Bibb Graves today signed a 2 per cent general sales tax bill as the Alabama legislature voted down proposals for state salary increases and civil service.

The sales tax goes into effect Monday, repealing the state's 1 1/2 per cent gross receipts tax. The state tax commission immediately ordered 25,000,000 brass and aluminum tokens to facilitate payment of the tax.

The levy falls on retail sales and amusement admissions, providing a fund estimated at $6,000,000 for homestead exemptions, education, health, welfare and extension work.

It expires September 30, 1939. The legislature, ready to wind up the special session Friday, defeated a proposal for general salary increases for state officials.

GOVERNOR ASKED TO EXPLAIN OUSTER

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Alabama legislators responded to the question of electing legislators to assembly created posts today while the senate called on Governor Johnston for an explanation of his suspension of a Spartanburg county magistrate.

Senator Burnett, of Spartanburg, sponsored a resolution asking the Governor to report on his suspension of Magistrate R. D. Hicks of Inman, Spartanburg county, "as prescribed by the act of 1882." Together with the "cause thereof" and the "record upon which he acted in issuing his order of suspension."

Johnston suspended Hicks February 18 after extended hearings on a charge that the magistrate was unfair to textile workers of a Spartanburg county mill in issuing ejection orders against them to remove them from company-owned houses.

N. C. LEGISLATURE MEETS ADJOURNMENT

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The state government property from the CCC supply company at Fort McRae, is charged to William T. Howard and Crawford J. Reagan. They are alleged to have taken automobile and truck supplies valued at $310.87.

LOYALISTS CAPTURE STRATEGIC POSITION

Rebels, However, Continue To Dominate Organda Bridge, 19 Miles From Madrid.

MADRID, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Hard-fighting loyalists were reported tonight to have captured strategeic Pinzarron hill in the Jarama sector, halted an Insurgent drive on Viver, northeast of Valencia, and killed 1,000 men on the Guadalajara front.

General Jose Mijia, Madrid sector commander, himself announced the capture of Pinzarron hill after a 10-hour battle in which troops fought under a canopy of steel as opposing artillerymen engaged in a day-long duel.

The hill, on whose summit the Insurgents had built an elaborate system of fortifications, dominates a wide section of the Morata de Tajuña region southeast of Madrid and west of the important Madrid-Valencia highway.

Shell-battered Morata de Tajuña, 19 miles southeast of Madrid, which stands between the east bank of the Jarama river and the Madrid-Valencia highway, was the target for the Insurgent cannoneers.

Rebels Hold Bridge.

The Insurgents continued to dominate Arganda bridge, 19 miles east of Madrid, on the Spanish rail, with artillery mounted at Viciana bridge, which lies between Madrid and Arganda.

Reports received here of an Insurgent offensive directed at Viver, 34 miles northwest of Valencia on the Teruel front, said government troops had halted the advance in the neighborhood of Mora de Rubielos.

Reds Win Battle.

Government troops also reported their troops had won an important engagement at Abanades, on the Guadalajara front, approximately 30 miles northeast of Brihuega.

A government official said the Insurgents lost 1,000 men when militia surprised a concentration which was preparing to attack Torre de Sabaniego, Abanades and Sacocero along the right bank of the Tajuña river.

Simultaneously, with the insurgents, the Madrid-Valladolid government planes twice raided Valencia, dropping incendiary bombs in the port section.

Damage was slight but authorities said they expected more air attacks to follow.

An Insurgent southern army, which swept eastward after its conquest of the southern seaport of Malaga, last week, reported approaching Almeria, some 200 miles southwest of Valencia.

From northern Spain, came government accounts of a fierce struggle for the Insurgent-held city of Orihuela. Asturian miners fighting for the government hurled dynamite into houses occupied by Insurgents.

OVIEDO DEFENDERS BLOW OFF LEFTISTS

BILBAO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A desperate, back-to-the-wall defense checked Oviedo's government besiegers today in the third day of bloody fighting for the "Alcazar of the Asturias."

A Bilbao radio announcement at 10 p. m. tonight (4 p. m. Atlanta time) asserted the whole quarter near the Pelayo barracks was afire.

The Loyalist government, advanced, continued steadily in all sectors of the assault, the radio adding that government airplanes rained heavy bombs on the city and hands of Insurgent soldiers deserted to the government lines.

The defending Insurgents fought off the threatening rings of government militiamen in hand-to-hand conflict for possession of the Biscayan city. Government troops have laid siege to Oviedo for more than three months.

SPANISH VOLUNTEERS HALTED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Soviet government today issued a decree prohibiting Russian citizens from going to Spain to participate in military operations and forbidding returning volunteers in Russia for Spanish service.

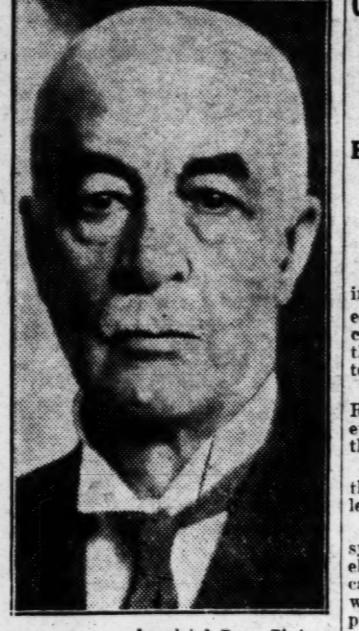

The decree banned volunteers from use of Soviet ships and instructed the Commissariat of Home Affairs and the foreign office to adopt measures necessary to enforce the decree effective from February 21.

CHURCH THREATENING TO BOYCOTT NAZI VOTE

Election Ordered by Hitler To Put Religious Affairs in Hands of Electorate.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Mounting opposition to Adolf Hitler's avowed plan to let German Protestantism choose its own controlling body threatened today to delay elections tentatively set for April 1.

The voting has been ordered by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to put evangelical church affairs back into the hands of the church electorate.

Two reasons for further delay in the elections were cited by religious leaders.

1. The fundamental confessional synod seems determined to boycott the election only if Herr Kerl, church minister, first submits election rules and regulations to them for approval.

It was regarded as doubtful whether Herr Kerl, representing in his ministerial capacity the authority of the regime, could agree to such demands.

The two major phases in the relations between the church and the state have been discernable since the Nazi party assumed power in Germany.

First, there was an attempt to force the church to accept Nazi leadership in spiritual matters; next came a period of applying "moral suasion" in hope of overcoming church opposition by friendly arguments; and last a period of disinterestedness on the part of the state in church matters.

New Theory

During the latest phase of the conflict, ideological leaders of Nazism have founded a "New Theology." It is an attempt to retain as much of the New Testament as possible, with a new meaning. The theme: "To follow Hitler, is to follow God."

Hitler himself was reared in the Catholic church.

slayings that have shocked greater Cleveland's 1,000,000 residents.

The city's police department—headed by Eliot Ness, former government alcohol tax unit agent who helped send Al Capone to prison—swung afresh into a hunt that has not been relaxed since the headless body of the first victim in the series of slayings was found in the same vicinity—near East 156th street—two and one half years ago. Hundreds of suspects have been questioned—always without a definite clue, police declared.

Less Than 40 Years Old.

Authorities estimated today's victim was less than 40 years old and weighed approximately 120 pounds.

Robert Smith, 55, who had gone to the shore to gather driftwood, found the body.

Following the discovery of the last torso in the Kingsbury Run district, Dr. A. J. Pearce, former coroner, called a meeting of police officials, crime experts, psychiatrists and chemists in an attempt to reach some agreement on the sort of killer the police department was seeking.

After nearly three hours of debate and conjecture, Detective Sergeant James Hogan, chief of the homicide squad, said:

"We're right where we were the day the first body was found."

State Police Proposal Defended By Judge Sutton, of Wilkes County

Author of Pending Measure Replies to Criticism Made by Judge Ogden Persons, of Forsyth, and Explains Advantages of System

Judge Clement E. Sutton, member of the legislature from Wilkes county and author of one of the bills proposed to create a state highway patrol, replies, in a letter addressed to the editor of The Constitution, to criticisms of the state police plan made by Judge Ogden Persons, of Forsyth, on Sunday last. In his newspaper, Judge Sutton points out that enlargement of the sheriff's forces in each county as a solution to the traffic fatality problem in Georgia is not practical because there is not authorization under law for payment of these men and also because each sheriff's jurisdiction is limited by the boundaries of his own county.

He also cites the satisfactory experiences of other states with the state police system.

Text of Letter.

His letter, in full, follows:

"My attention has been called to an article in your Sunday edition of February 21, prepared by Judge Ogden Persons of Forsyth, in which certain objections are made to the formation of a state highway patrol in Georgia. Knowing Judge Persons as well as I do, any opinion or expression emanating from him is to be given great weight by the thinking people of the state. He is always fair in his opinions. I have a serious study of the results obtained by a state police in other states would cause him to modify his statements.

"His objections will be considered in their order:

Solons 'Resent' Plan To Limit Publicity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(UP)—Most members of congress agreed today that Representative Hobbs, Democrat of Alabama, was making altogether too much of them.

Some said privately they would be glad to do almost anything else for him—lend him their best bird dogs or let him share their speaking time on the floor.

But what Hobbs actually proposed was a drastic restriction upon the joy of seeing one's own oratory in a free, official print.

Declaring there is too much bungling in Congress, Congressional Record, he suggested it be closed to all extraneous matter, including speeches never delivered on the floor of either house.

Experts estimated the speech-printing privilege he wants to take with the government $173,000 last year.

Violations. They are underpaid, at best, and though on the whole highly reputable and efficient officers, cannot on their meager fees properly patron the highways or even investigate offenses committed on the highways.

"(4.) In states which have enjoyed the state police system for years, the state police has been a great help to local sheriffs. There has been no conlict in jurisdiction in the 30-odd states now having the state police system, but on the contrary the sheriffs of those states work in complete harmony with the state police.

"If the state police of other states had approached complete harmony with local sheriffs, what reason is there to think that Georgia will be given a "bad name" because of a conlict between the two forces in this state? Our Georgia sheriffs will compare favorably with those of other states.

Arguments in Favor.

"The state trooper draws nothing but his salary. All prosecutions must be confined to the county where the offense is committed and in those courts where the sheriff is the chief judicial officer. The fines will be paid into the treasury of the court where the sheriff can participate, and the state trooper, being on a salary, cannot.

"The very arguments used against the creation of a state system seem to be the strongest in its favor.

"Judge Persons does admit that the situation is deplorable and that no present remedy exists to cure the evil.

"Will traffic fatalities be lessened by a force of sheriffs and deputies which must be paid out of the county treasury, with no present provision whereby payment can be made, and who can have no jurisdiction beyond the limits of their own counties, or by a force having statewide jurisdiction paid by the state?

"The paid of more than 800 vic-times of traffic accidents in Georgia last year cries from the ground. Those who oppose the formation of a state force to handle this situation must answer to the families of the victims who will meet a like fate this year."

Would Double Cost.

"(2.) Judge Persons suggests that instead of creating a state patrol that all sheriffs be placed on a salary and deputies be added in each county.

This would mean that the state would require a force of at least 500 men, working under the county system, at a cost of double that proposed by the state patrol.

"The trend of the times is to relieve the overburdened counties and cities of the expense of local government. To place all sheriffs and deputies on a salary would require the expenditure of county funds, which are limited by state law.

"Other states have tried the enlargement of the sheriffs' powers, and Massachusetts' efforts to establish a state constabulary have not been successful.

Sheriffs Underpaid.

"The argument used by Judge Persons that sheriffs are directly responsible to the people, being elective officers, is the very fact that has rendered them impotent to handle traffic problems.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(UP)—British moves to perfect sovereignty over Christmas Island, potential air base in the South Pacific, stirred speculation today as to whether the United States might dispute ownership.

This country has contested British claims to the island on several occasions in the past.

State Department officials declined any immediate comment today, however, on the sailing of the British sloop Leith with equipment for a radio station to be erected on the atoll.

They referred all inquiries to historical references and diplomatic correspondence, which showed the United States had made no recent effort to assert its claims but never had relinquished them.

The island is occupied by employes of a British corporation engaged in growing coconuts and exporting copra.

The corporation has a lease from the British government for 87 years, dating from 1914.

United States District Judge Alex-

The order, similar to other injunctions

"That's funny," she whispered. "Do you know I seem to be doing the same sort of things she did. Rose Somerville. It's come back to me how Adriatic had been to her. She had been to him a couple of days ago. A moment ago I found my cigarette burning a hole in the carpet. She did that when she fell down in that attack. Do you see? That's the burn place there."

On the small table at his elbow was a box which had contained a hundred cigarettes, the same brand as his own. About a dozen remained. "I've always smoked as much as you're doing now," he asked. "Who buys these cigarettes for you? Or do you buy them yourself?"

"Of course I buy them. Why, what on earth?" She stopped, stared at him and came a step closer. "What do you mean?" she demanded.

"Nothing. Tell me more about the fainting. What were you doing and how long were you unconscious?"

As best she could Diana described her sensations to Colin.

"It's all so silly. I can't believe I did lose consciousness, and yet . . . how long was it? I don't know. Long enough for half a decent to burn out. What's the time now?"

"Ten minutes past 10."

"Is it?" she exclaimed, astonished. "Surely not!" It was 8 when I sat here. It doesn't seem possible." Suddenly she thought of the will. "O let's not bother about me! I'm all right now, and you ought to be getting along to Mr. Hull's. O, Colin, don't you think we may, at last, have got something worth while?"

"I'm afraid not." His face was white and drawn as he set down his cup. "Fetch me the paper—will you? We'll see what Hull makes of it."

She disappeared into the bedroom. Very deftly Colin shoved the loose dozen cigarettes into his coat pocket and replaced them by similar ones taken from his own packet.

"Cut down the smoking a bit," he advised when she rejoined him. "Get out all you can—otherwise we'll have to keep up about this." He tapped the will before depositing it in his note case. "Now, then! Shall you get off to bed?"

"Yes, though I'm wide-awake now. If Hull does have any new ideas about things, will you promise to ring me up, no matter how late it is?"

"I promise," he said gravely—absently.

"I'm afraid not," he thought. "It was Blundell speaking.

At first she heard nothing but a crisp rattle of papers. Soon, however, a voice she knew instantly for that of Sir Norbury. "Penge spoke in dictation," he said.

"That man is the boss on the premises again?" It asked.

"Penge? O, no! I got rid of both him and my cook for the entire night. You see, I remembered your nerves."

It was Blundell speaking.

"I'm thundering glad to hear it," returned the minister, mollified, but still peremptory. "What's that?"

"I'm afraid it's a new case about the man in the murder trials, having to furnish alibis and what-not."

"O, sorry, old man!" It was a grumbled apology. "That got you, did it? No offense! was forgetting both those poor women were your friends. What struck me was the devilish buck, just now, of the police inspectors poking into your affairs. You never know what they're up to once they start nosing around. Sure you've left no memoranda lying loose?"

Diana heard Lord Limpfield's rich voice saying in accents of reprobation:

"Come, come, Norbury! Blundell's not the sort of man to be trifled with."

Even a scrap of paper stays in his strongbox at the bank, except when he fetches it out for us to look over. Isn't it so, Blundell?"

"Certain, sure," soothed Blundell.

"And back it goes first thing next morning. Nick's taking my chances. Now, now, here's the list of our new neighbors in the Southgate and North Riding districts, likewise Herefordshire. Complete with alleged developments. Like to run through em?"

"Thanks." There was a gurgling noise as Sir Norbury drained his glass.

"Let's have the map . . . I say, Limp!"

His tone changed. "What price that letter in the Daily Beam complaining about the man in the murder trials?"

"I'm not thinking about that," he said.

DUKE POWER COMPANY WINS POINT IN COURT TO BAN BUZZARD ROOST

Judge Says U. S. Is Attempting To Force Rate Reduction Indirectly.

ROCK HILL, S. C., Feb. 23.—(P) Federal Judge J. Lyles Glenn upheld the right of the Duke Power Company to attempt to stay at the injunction hearing today that the proposed Buzzard Roost power project is a government attempt to do indirectly what it cannot do directly—force electricity rate reductions.

Overruling objections by counsel for Greenwood county and the Public Works Administration, which plan a $200,000 hydro-electric plant to be built through a PWA loan and grant and operated by the county, Judge Glenn said:

"There's no use being mealy-mouthed about it. I haven't made up my mind on a decision, but it is a fact that one of the main contentions is that the project is unconstitutional because it attempts to do something indirectly that it can't do directly. I don't see how I could intelligently reach a decision without testimony like this."

Flight Pushed.

The power company is pushing a two-year fight against the project after one victory and one defeat in the lower courts and a remanding of the case by the United States Supreme Court for correction of the district court procedure at the original hearing.

The company won an injunction in the district court, but lost when PWA and the county appealed to the circuit court.

Decision Reserved.

Much of the time has been devoted to documents of counsel over admission of documents, on which the judge reserved decision until tomorrow. Most of these had to do with the aims of Secretary Ikes and the PWA in the construction of publicly-owned power projects. The Duke Company contends the principal aim to be private companies that reduce their rates while Greenwood county and the PWA maintain the project is merely one of convenience and necessity.

2 Police Indicted For Thefts in Flood

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 23.—(P) Two police officers, including a corporal, were indicted by the grand jury today on charges of robbing five persons of a total of $182.95 during the recent flood emergency here. The other patrolman was William E. McDonner, 24, Louisville.

A contingent of Philadelphia police was sent here along with police from other cities to assist authorities in relief and policing work.

Commonwealth's Attorney Merit O'Neal said that Louisville officials were "grateful" to Philadelphia for sending officers and because of that the patrolmen would be consulted to determine their wishes in the case.

During the flood, Mr. Oliver, he succeeds Colonel Ralph R. Glass, who has been acting chief of staff post in charge of plans and training for the fourth corps area.

Colonel Llewellyn W. Oliver, assigned as chief of staff, fourth corps area, from command of the sixth cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., yesterday took over his duties in Atlanta.

Colonel Oliver was chief of staff of the sixteenth division, and immediately following the war was chief of staff, port of embarkation, New Jersey. For his work in this capacity he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Navy Cross.

A native of Michigan, Colonel Oliver was graduated from West Point and was commissioned second lieutenant of infantry in 1899. He was transferred to the cavalry in 1900, remaining with that service until his assignment to the Atlanta post. He is one of the few American army officers to be graduated from the French cavalry school, a world-famous institution.

Virginia Rich, Betty Lou Houck, John Fulton Star in Show at Atlanta Theater.

By RALPH T. JONES.

"Faint Perfume," by Zona Gale, production of the Atlanta Theater Guild, opened a three-day run at the Atlanta theater last night and was received with enthusiastic applause by a fairly large audience.

The play, which leans to the words in the opening scenes, develops plot better in the second and third acts and finishes with a most satisfactory denouement which leaves everyone completely happy, with the lovers, the small boy provided and the villainess herself probably quite satisfied with the usual satisfaction provided for villains in the various sections of the city, who in turn made the deliveries.

Participating in the raid besides Lieutenant McElroy were Lieutenant R. B. Burnett, Detectives R. R. Davis and J. A. Bailey.

McElroy informed him of his plans for cleaning up the city, it was estimated he would present a list of 15 or 18 men, classed as unfit for duty, to the police committee Friday night.

These men will be asked to stand a physical examination and requested to retire on pension if they fail to pass the chief said.

Four policemen, in addition to McElroy and Warren, on whose beats liquor was seized Sunday and Monday, will be requested to explain why these establishments were not reported sooner.

Indication was that others would also be asked to explain.

"It has been brought to my attention that whisky is being sold quite openly in some places in the city," Bridges said. "Certainly a policeman on the beat should know what is going on. It is his duty when unable to cope with the situation to write a report to the chief giving what information he has on such matters."

Pension Is Sought.

One of the patrolmen facing charges before the committee Friday, Charles T. Maddox, filled in an application for Federal Theater project and before change was made, informed the application had been submitted by C. C. Brooks, secretary to Chief Hornsby. Maddox pocketed it, saying he did not intend to turn it in until after he returned from a 14-day vacation which was to start Tuesday.

Chief Hornsby had no statement to make on Maddox's application for pension.

Throughout the day, raiding squads continued a relentless war on vice, swooping down on places whose owners apparently thought themselves safe.

A 100-gallon still, located in a building behind the city auditorium, was seized and destroyed. While the still was not in operation at the time of the raid, Detective Lieutenant McElroy, who led the raid, declared a run had been made within the last 48 hours.

Shortly before the raid, the detectives arrested a man on "suspcion of making whisky" when they found him loitering in the Piedmont avenue entrance of the building. The still was still on the second floor and was unattended. On the first floor all stores were closed.

Members of the raiding squad climbed a rear wall to reach the room in which the still was located, police reported.

Three patrons of alleged dives arrested in raids over the weekend were tried in recorder's court yesterday and fined $12 each. Three other men arrested in the raids were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $100 each on charges of possession of whisky.

Both Hornsby and McElroy emphasized there would be no slackening in the efforts of the police department until all districts and places of ill fame were closed down.

Mayor Hartfield campaigned with the promise to scour the city and to rid it of vice.

Chief Hornsby personally lead raids Sunday that instigated the current war on liquor joints and the illegal sale of whisky, beer and wine. Detective Lieutenant McElroy has been leading frequent raids on dives, bootleggers and other raids.

Hugh Luby Signs, Leaving Only Three Crackers Out of Fold

After the long haul back from Thomasville, where the very successful open golf tournament was held with Dick Metz the victor in a play-off, I had thought to get away from golf a bit.

But Mr. Earl Mann, out at the baseball park, said he had no news to speak of except that Hugh Luby had signed. In fact, Mr. Mann was rather low. He said, in fact, he felt as if he had been shot at and hit. This was surprising, as Mr. Mann had not been to a golf tournament.

Well, anyhow, just at that very moment, the afternoon mail came and there was a letter from Jack Spalding, who is down in Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, having gone there some months ago to make the banana safe for democracy.

It seems that they are initiating Jack Spalding. He is being sent about with quinine and argyrol with which to dose the natives for fever and pink eye. There are the usual bugs, bananas, beans and mules of the tropics. But he closes out with golf.

"Golf is quite the thing down here with all who make over eighty a month. The course is short but rife with such hazards as water works, railroads, houses, palms, children, and a small lake densely populated with alligators."

The golfer probably is the most determined athlete in the world. Your real golfer, who plays in winter snows and summer suns and spring rains and autumnal storms, is an addict of the worst sort.

He will, no matter in what end of the earth you may put him down, build himself a golf course. Or at least a piece of golf course.

I recall talking with an Englishman who had been sent to a post near the mountain passes in Afghanistan. The natives had a cheerful habit of sniping at the golfers and the deadly snakes were quite bad. But they had themselves a dinky little golf course where they played, taking guards along with rifles to protect them.

An old roommate of mine, now in China, told me about a course of six holes which they laid out. It was all flat and dull. But they played the six holes religiously.

It can't be much fun playing a course where there are water hazards reeking with alligators, and where native children make up other hazards. But the people of the banana lands at Puerto Barrios no doubt regard it as precious land.

The golf fan is queer enough. But the real golf addict is even queerer.

THE TOURING PROS NEVER TIRE.

The touring professionals almost literally live golf. They play one tournament and arrive in another town just in time to begin playing again.

They come in from one round and spend a couple of hours on the practice green or tee. And at night they sit around in little groups and talk golf.

They recall every shot of every round. You may bend in an ear and pick up something about a hot round in which some star was deep in the tangled wild-wood and holed out with a putter.

"When was that?" you will ask, in some excitement, thinking perhaps you missed it during the day.

"Oh, that was four years ago at St. Pete," they will say, and go on with the story.

No other profession has members who pay as much attention to their profession as do the golfers. They work very hard at it.

They never get weary of golf. If they did, they wouldn't be in it.

I asked Horton Smith what the successful tournament golfer must have. He reeled off a list of items—

"Skill, psychology, philosophy, mechanics of the game, patience—"

It requires a lot of each.

THOSE TECHS AND KNOXVILLE.

Those basketball Techs will depart tomorrow for Knoxville and the Southeastern tournament.

They are undefeated, which is against them. It means all the boys will be shooting the works against Tech.

In the days when Kentucky was often a bridesmaid but never a bride of the championship, the Kentuckians annually would show up with the best team. But every other team would make a mental resolution to go out there and let fly with everything and see what happened.

What happened was someone usually defeated Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama look like the teams to beat. I note that Alabama is rated rather high in the tournament prospects. Some weeks ago I sat in the gym at Athens and saw Georgia defeat Alabama with some ease.

Hank Crisp, the Alabama basketball coach, did not seem disturbed.

"I think my team will come along fast," he said. "We ought to be right good by tournament time."

And they are.

But I like the Jackets to take this one. They have speed, height and skill.

They have one weakness. When Bo Johnston is out of there, there simply isn't another Bo Johnston to put in his place.

Tech has never won a conference championship in basketball. This team is one of the best ones ever produced in the south and maybe the best college basketball team ever developed.

Tournaments, however, are peculiar affairs. There is no telling what will happen.

STOPPING THE FAST BREAK.

Sam Myers, who is sports editor of the Columbus News-Record, writes in of an ingenious method of defense in basketball for stopping the "fast break."

Myers discovered the story at Hartsboro, Ala. The gymnasium was located on the second floor of a building. And there was not much space under the baskets. They stuck right out from the wall.

There were two doors in each end of the building. In the first half the visiting team, employing a fast break, scored 50 points. In the second they scored only a few.

The home-town people simply opened both doors. Having no wall to break the charge, the players had to choose between going hurtling out the door and falling one floor down, or stopping their rush. They stopped the rush.

It requires a special setting. But it has its merits. Mr. Mundorff may examine the gym at Knoxville. There may be some handy doors up there.

BEES DEPART.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—The first contingent of the Boston Bees departed for the St. Petersburg training camp today in charge of Duffy Lewis, former Red Sox immortal who now serves the National leagues as road secretary.

ALBANY GETS BRYAN.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—(P)—Manager Bill McCorry of the Albany football team announced today James Wesley Bryan, Jr., outfielder, has been obtained through arrangements with the Norfolk team of the Piedmont league.

RUMORS THICK IN SUTHERLAND, HARRISON RIFT

Grid Coach Says He Won't Resign Willingly; Showdown Thursday.

PITSBURGH, Feb. 23.—(P)—An old rift in the athletic department of the University of Pittsburgh spread ever wider today with reports that Dr. John Bain Sutherland, Panther football coach, will resign because of differences with W. Don Harrison, athletic director.

It has been a long time since deep rumblings of dissension first were heard, but never before have the directors of Pitt's athletic destinies failed to settle their difficulties in the quiet of their offices.

Both the principals have built up envied records—Harrison boosted Pitt's standing until the Panthers were meeting leading schools throughout the nation—Sutherland did his part by turning out consistently victorious football squads.

But now Sutherland is reported to prefer ending his 13 years of coaching at Pitt to "starting battle which cannot be had to hard feelings on all sides."

Some close observers said that Harrison, genial and mustached, and Sutherland, the silent one, even have gone so far this time as to quit speaking when they meet.

A showdown is expected Thursday. Sutherland is holding a dinner party—no one has been invited—but he's too busy with football, will return at that time from an eastern trip. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph said he will turn in his resignation at that time.

The latest—and maybe last disagreement—was generally agreed to have been based on basic principles.

—That Sutherland wanted the Pitt players to receive some funds for a celebration after they trounced Washington in the Rose Bowl game last New Year's Day, but Harrison disagreed.

—That they argued about the celebration and Harrison's anger, declared to Sutherland: "I know you are now going to break your word."

—That recent changes in the coaching staff at Pitt were without Sutherland's approval, and came after Harrison disagreed increases in salary for the silent Sco's assistants.

Harrison categorically denied all of the charges, and denied any disagreement between himself and Sutherland. He added that reports Sutherland would hand in his resignation were news agreed.

"After all, these boys are the ones I can't let down. They have given me everything they have. They have fought for Pitt. They are the finest squad of youngsters I have been in contact with, and when it comes to the final analysis, they—not me or anyone else—are the ones to be considered."

JARRETT SIGNS $30,000 CONTRACT FOR WATER SHOW

Olympic Beauty Despairs of Ever Regaining Amateur Status.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who acquired fame by rockin' the Olympic boat last summer, added the fortune today by signing a $30,000 contract to appear in the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland.

This may end the weary wrangle over her amateur standing. Mrs. Jarrett, dropped from the Olympic team for breaking training rules, was subsequently barred from the European competition by the Amateur Athletic Union. This suspension was vaguely maintained when she returned to this country, but there was still some hope of reinstatement until she exercised her professional status today.

"I have given up the offer," she said, "but I know they won't. If I'd apply for reinstatement, it would just mean slinging that Olympic mud all over again. I don't want to do that. Little I can show."

Mrs. Jarrett admitted, however, that $30,000 was a handy little sum, and she sees plenty more than that coming up.

"I've been a sap," continued the beauté. "I've had all kinds of offers, but I've never taken them. I've turned them all down, but I read in the papers the other day that even the metropolitan district committees are against me, so I decided to cash in."

The professional contact calls for Eleanor to lead the "Jackets" in the Cleveland Exposition, the contract was negotiated by Mrs. Jarrett's agent, Lou Irwin. The show will open May 29 and run for approximately 26 weeks.

She also plans several other professional ventures. She will probably sign to appear in a bathing suit minstrel show and after several days in Cleveland go to Hollywood to appear in a movie short.

Just back from a vaudeville tour, Mrs. Jarrett was light-hearted as ever. Though she obviously hated to end her spectacular amateur career, she laughed off by saying:

"I'm going to the 1940 Olympics at that. I'm starting a campaign to be made chaperons of the 1940 American team."

Sutherland was quoted by the Sun-Telegraph as saying:

"I will not resign willingly. I couldn't do that after what happened when almost every boy I have coached the past year came to me and asked if it were true I was leaving."

Sam McAllister To Coach at Florida

EX-LINE COACH FOR BULLDOGS TO ASSIST CODY

Named Head Basketball Coach; Will Help With Grid, Baseball Teams.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 23.—Sam S. McAllister, who played and coached basketball and football at Auburn and last year was line football coach at Georgia, became head basketball coach at the University of Florida here today.

He also will assist Head Coach Josh Cody with the football and baseball teams and probably will do some scouting for the Gators during the gridiron season.

McAllister will take over next season's basketball squad from Cody, who directed the cagers during the campaign which closed Saturday night.

Florida's past basketball season was not a success, however, as the Gators team lost 13 games and won five. It finished next to last in the Southeastern conference, losing nine games out of 10.

Cody praised McAllister today and said Florida was "indeed fortunate" to secure his services. The head coach and athletic director added that McAllister's knowledge of the Southeastern conference and his ability as a basketball coach will be invaluable to us."

McAllister replied he was glad "to work under Josh Cody and I think Florida has a great future."

Spring football practice is in full swing at the Gator athletic fields.

HEMPHILL WINS MEDAL HONORS

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23. (UP)—Katherine Hemphill, the buxom South Carolina girl who hits one of the longest drives in women's golf, equalled the women's competitive course record with a 73 today to win the qualifying round of the South Atlantic.

Steaming the brisk wind which swept the seaside Ormond Beach links, Miss Hemphill was out in 39 and home in 34 to tie the mark established by Patty Berg in the qualifying test a year ago.

Miss Berg, winner of three winter tournaments this year and a heavy favorite to capture this one in which she was 1926 runner-up, finished a stroke behind Miss Hemphill. Patty was out in 37, one under men's par, and might have returned in 34 had her putter been a bit luckier.

HUNG ON TOP.

On three occasions on the outward nine, her long approach putts hung on the lip of the hole.

Coming home with a sizable gallery tagging at her heels, the freckle-faced redhead lost much of her accuracy off the tee and frequently found herself in trouble. As a result, she slipped to 37—three over men's par—and might have returned in 34 had her putter been a bit luckier.

POWELL SIGNS YANK CONTRACT

G. M. A., Boys' High and Tech High supplied Atlanta prep basketball fans with three of the biggest upsets in recent years with victories Tuesday in the semi-final round of the Big Seven race.

G. M. A., newly-crowned city champions, shaded Monroe Aggies, 24-23, on the College Park court to move into a tie with Columbus High for second place. Boys' High won its first and only victory of the year after 18 straight defeats, with a 41-34 decision over Commercial on the Fulton court and Tech High climaxed the round with a 41-32 upset over Columbus Industrial, on the Henry Grady court.

Monroe, however, holds first place, while Columbus Industrial dropped to third, and the Henry Grady, fourth, Commercial fifth and Boys' High, sixth.

Captain Roy Rowlett sank a field goal just as the final whistle blew to give G. M. A. a 24-23 upset victory over Monroe Aggies. The defeat left the Aggies and Columbus Industrial in tie for first place in the Big Seven race with the Cadets in third place.

Playing probably the best ball game of the year, Boys' High snapped out of its long losing streak, with Traylor leading the way. The lanky forward scored 15 points and it was the first time this year in which he has led the Purples scoring. Gershon followed with 10 and Teague at center scored nine points.

The Yankees also announced the signing of Outfielder Ernie Koy, promising graduate from the Yanks' New York farm.

The signing of Powell leaves Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez as the most serious holdouts.

Gehrig has not seen Colonel Jacob Ruppert since he asked for $19,000 raise over the colonel's offer of $31,000. Two visits by Gomez to Ruppert's office raised Lefty's pay from $12,000 to $20,000, but Gomez is holding out for more.

Other regulars not signed are Pitcher Monte Pearson, Catcher Bill Dickey and Infielders Frankie Crosetti and Red Rolfe.

The first squad starts training at St. Petersburg Monday. Some members, including Catcher Bill Dickey and Second Baseman Tony Lazzeri, are already there.

Roulett, Wright Star for G. M. A.

The G. M. A.-Monroe game was the toughest of the year and the third one-point victory for the Cadets, who recently won the city championship for the first time in many years.

G. M. A. led all the way in the first half and their scores.

Mrs. W. R. Stanford, New York, $3; Mrs. Lee, Memphis, $3; Mrs. William Hockenberry, Lake Hopatcong, N. J., $8; Mrs. Lillian Zoch, Chicago, $8; Mrs. G. G. Blaissel, Waterville, Maine, $8; Jean Van Landingham, Charlotte, N. C., $8; M. Gayer, Charleston, S. C., $5; and Betty Bottrell, Salt Lake City, $9.

Miss Bottrell won her place in the first flight in a "sudden death" play-off.

Tomorrow's first-round pairings:

Hempill vs. Stafford; Cothran vs. Solomon; Baker vs. Hockenberry; Benson vs. Zech; Berg vs. Blaissel; Traun vs. Van Landingham; Miley vs. Gayer; Dettweiler vs. Bottrell.

Barlund To Battle Nate Mann Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—Gunnar Barlund, aging Finnish heavyweight undefeated in this country, appears to be in for his hardest assignment tomorrow night when he opposes Nathan Mann, of New Haven, in a 10-round bout at the Hippodrome.

The betting favors Barlund at 7 to 5, probably because of his unchallenging power and size, while Mann, the 20-year-old, is a fighter.

Both men, with their records, have a good chance of winning.

Gulf Refining Trips Texaco Five, 57 to 37

Gulf Refining, winner of the last half of the Atlanta Commercial league, defeated Texaco, 57 to 37, Tuesday night on the Y. M. C. A. court. Gulf and Warren, southern amateur champions, will play two out of three to determine the Commercial league title.

Bob Getzen and Griffith, with 83 points between them, led the scoring. Clegg and Kindell were outstanding for Texaco.

TINTAGEL WINS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—Marshall Field's Tintagel, winner of the 1935 Belmont Futurity, finally came through with his first victory of the winter racing season today in accounting for the six furlongs of the Tampa handicap at Hialeah park today.

BEAT BULLDOGS.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.—(P)—The University of Florida's basketball team defeated the University of Georgia here tonight, 6 to 2.

POWELL SIGNS YANK CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(P)—The New York Yankees broke the "big five" holdout trust today by signing pitcher Jake Powell to a $9,000 contract.

Powell was offered $7,500 and asked $14,000. He was signed to a $5,000 Washington contract last year. Because of his good work after being traded in midseason to the Yankees, he was given a $1,000 bonus.

The Yankees also announced the signing of Outfielder Ernie Koy, promising graduate from the Yanks' New York farm.

TECH GOLFERS OPEN 11-MATCH CARD MARCH 26

Jackets Also To Enter S. E. C. Tourney; Barnes Captain, No. 1 Player.

By Roy White.

Georgia Tech's golf team will play Tech's first match in addition to three days' participation in the annual Southeastern conference tournament late in April at Athens, Ga., it was announced Tuesday by Professor E. H. Dennison, Tech coach.

Georgia Tech, of Washington, D. C., will open the card on March 26 on the East Lake course and Alabama will close the schedule at Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 15.

Tournaments at Athens and Atlanta are scheduled with the University of Georgia, with home and home, to be also scheduled with the University of Tennessee and Alabama.

All of Tech's home matches will be played on the East Lake course, except when tournaments are in progress.

CITY CHAMPION.

Tommy Barnes, who last year rallied on the final 36 holes to win the city amateur championship over Dr. Julian Hughes, will captain the Tech team and play the No. 1 position in every match.

Barnes, one of the outstanding three-year-olds of 1936, had been going along nicely in his trials for the rich stake. Recently, however, his old leg trouble returned and Widener decided to take no chances of injuring the young player.

The Widener, who won the Florida Derby last year in what was then world record time of 1:48 1/5 for a mile and an eighth, and finished second to Bob Venture and White Cockade in the Kentucky Derby and Withers Mile, respectively, before being forced into retirement.

The withdrawal of Barnes leaves the rare a wide open affair with Elwood Sachse's Roman Soldier the probable choice.

Brevity Withdrawn From Miami Race

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23.—(P)—Brevity, pre-race favorite to win the Widener challenge cup at Hialeah Park March 6, today was declared out of the $50,000 stake by its owner, J. E. Widener.

ASSEMBLY WILL HEAR LIVESTOCK LEADERS

Conference of Farmers To Appear Before Joint Session on March 3.

COCHRAN, Ga., Feb. 23.—(P)—E. B. Weatherly, Cochran businessman and livestock grower, said today plans were completed for the livestock conference to be held in Atlanta on March 3.

Douglas Plane Plant IS CLOSED BY SIT-DOWN CALLED BY C.I.O. UNION

5,600 Throw Out of Work
After 500 Commerce
Demonstration.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The big Douglas aircraft plant at Santa Monica closed down production operations today after about 500 of its 5,600 employees launched a sit-down strike.

Douglas Corporation executives ordered "loyal" employees, including women office workers, to go home.

The demonstration started when someone pulled the main power switch, stopping many of the several hundred cheering men began to涌出 the plant, urging other workers to join in a strike. As the demonstration proceeded, executives ordered various units of employees remaining at their post to suspend work. Then came the shut-down order.

Strike leaders said the sit down had been ordered by the aircraft division of the United Automobile Workers of America, AFL.

One of the strike leaders, William Binsick, told the strikers to remain in the plant until their demands are met. They are for 15 to 25 cents an hour increase in wages that now average from $10 to $26 a week, recognition of the union, straight seniority, and reinstatement of all employees the unionists were dismissed because of union activities.

As of last December 1, the Douglas Corporation had on its books unfilled orders totaling nearly $24,500,000, including federal government orders for service planes totaling nearly $10,000,000.

CREDIT GROUPS ELECT AS SESSIONS CONCLUDE

Three-Day Convention Ends; Nashville Is Chosen for 1938 Meeting.

Following heated debate on the advisability of long-term installment credit and government credit regulation, members of the fourth and third areas of the National Retail Credit Association and the National Consumer Credit Reporting Corporation elected officers for 1937 yesterday and adjourned their three-day annual meeting.

R. A. Smith, of Sanford, Fla., was elected president of the third district retail credit body, succeeding James Klyatt, of Atlanta; W. C. Durham, of Jackson, Miss., was named president of the fourth district, and L. Moorman was re-elected president of the third district association of the National Consumer Credit Reporting Association. L. S. Gilbert, of Atlanta, was elected secretary of the third district retail credit body.

Nashville, Tenn., was selected for the 1938 convention but no time was set.

In discussing credit extension, members pointed out the tendency of dealers to grant credit to get volume business through easy credit terms rather than trying to sell their merchandise. Long terms were declared dangerous as chances for collection are "slim" after the life of the article has worn out.

Yesterday morning's session was divided into three discussion groups: Creditmen, credit reporting and supervising credit departments. Following these, a general meeting was held to discuss routine reports and to elect officers.

H. H. Tettet, district credit manager of a mail order house, led the discussion of installment plans before the credit men. Bureau managers devoted their final session to a discussion of membership, rates and the 1937 program. The bureau managers discussed various handleings of accounts, new business and prospects of an increase in membership in the third and fourth districts.

POWER RATE REDUCED FOR MARIETTA USERS

Commercial Customers Will Get $2,461 Saving
This Year.

MARIETTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—Reduction of the electric rates to commercial customers of the city board of public works was announced here today by John W. Lewis, board treasurer, effective on March 1 meter readings.

The new rate structure will save commercial consumers $2,461,56, based on their 1936 consumption it was estimated.

The city's income from current gold has increased steadily in the past four years and the anticipated gain in 1937 will offset the rate cut, and keep revenues at about the same level, Mr. Lewis said.

The total sale of current in 1931 was 2,401,000 kilowatt hours for a revenue of $89,467.03, as compared with 4,831,369 kilowatt hours, for a revenue of $109,520.76, in 1936.

Doll House Preview To Recall Memories of Childhood Days

By Sally Forth.

CHILDHOOD memories will be revived this evening when Atlanta society assembles at the gala preview of the Colleen Moore Doll House at Rich's, where the week's showing will open tomorrow. Fairyland figures will come to life as the charming Miss Moore conducts a personal tour of the famous half-million-dollar toy where fairy folk are pictured going through their adventures. The famous star of the silent films has lived within the walls of imagination since the completion of her doll house, and this evening Atlantans will have the privilege of seeing this extraordinary creation, which is being brought here under the auspices of the Young Matrons' Circle for the Tallulah Falls School.

A feature of the preview this evening will be the drink bar, which will carry out fairyland fancies in the decorations, and the attractive bevy of "bar maids" will be Mrs. Kels Boland Jr., Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, Mrs. Gush Ashcraft and Mrs. Lloyd Hatcher, who will wear costumes representing famous characters from story books, including "Alice in Wonderland," "Peter Pan," "Puss-in-Boots," "Little Muffet," and others.

Atlanta will have an opportunity of seeing the latest addition to the house in the set of comb, brush, mirror and jeweled case for the fairy princess. The brush and mirror have diamond-studded backs and the comb is of tortoise with carefully cut tiny teeth. The bristles of the brush are made from little white hairs from silver fox tails. The set was given Miss Moore by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison, as a Christmas gift. Atlanta is the second city where it has been on display.

MARIANNA ADAIR had the time of her life when she Marianna's friends anticipate her return with unusual interest.

A N INTERESTING, if rather tragic, incident which happened in New Orleans during the recent Mardi Gras, Sally finds is just a bit too good to keep to herself. There is a prevailing custom at the large balls during the Mardi Gras to the effect that the masquerading gentlemen ask the young belles for a dance, at the end of which they present their incognito partners with some trinket or small gift. As the gaily-colored and decorated floats pass through the streets, which are filled with gala throngs of onlookers, the people riding on the floats also toss trinkets to the boisterous crowds.

It so happens that a certain elderly young bachelor in New Orleans recently became engaged to one of the season's most popular debutantes of that city. Anticipating the grand ball, at which he planned to dance frequently with the lady of his choice, he purchased an exquisite and expensive diamond bracelet to give her, instead of the usual inconsequential trinket, at the end of the dance.

But circumstances arose, which might have been avoided, but which, nevertheless, completely disrupted his former plans. For, with the excitement of the festival, and all the celebration concurring with it, the gentleman in question became hilariously inebriated. And, as he rode through the city on an artistically arranged float, a beautiful young lady in the crowd caught his fancy, and he gaily tossed her the diamond bracelet which was to have graced the wrist of his future wife. Those in the "know" still wonder if the mysterious young girl who received the gift has ever realized that the bracelet is genuine, instead of the usual imitation.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Monday.—I felt very guilty not being in Washington yesterday when my husband telephoned me to tell me that little Ethel de Pomi had to go to the hospital to be operated on for appendicitis. One cannot foresee what is going to happen. Fortunately, her mother reached Washington this morning and all is well.

I have had moments when I wanted to settle down in the country, and one of them was on this morning! I wanted to play hooky and go down and pick pussy-willows and bring them in and watch them come out. I wanted to walk for miles through the muddy fields and not care how muddy I got, and when I came home I wished for a wood fire with a luncheon table in front of it, and then a comfortable chair, a book and nothing else to do.

Such moments of revolt are good for the soul, particularly when you don't give in to them! I walked around carefully in my city clothes, went in and paid my bills, groaned over the way money melts away and then took the train for New York city.

Ever since a group of unemployed girls asked me the question, "What would you do, Mrs. Roosevelt, if you were out of a job today?" I have been haunted by the feeling that it is up to us to make some suggestions in answer to that question. I found a man on the train this morning—a perfect stranger—who was full of an idea.

He wanted to go back to a little place in Maine where he had grown up and put it on its feet. He told me his ideas as to how it could be done, and I told him what was worrying me and asked him if some ideas had seemed practical to him. He agreed with me that a careful survey in many communities and an imaginative mind might bring to light a number of services which people might be willing to pay for, even people with small incomes. He made one statement which impressed me because he is evidently an experienced salesman and manager in a large firm.

He said the great buying public is not the few rich people, the market lies in the $1,200 to $3,000 a year group. They are the people who need things.

They are the people who need services, too, I am sure, and they can't always afford to have them. I wish we could bring to light ways in which to increase their buying power by providing things which they could sell, as well as buy.

For instance, the woman whose husband makes $1,200 a year may have a couple of hours a day which she could sell in return for some service which she wishes to buy. There ought to be a trading bureau in every town of any size where these exchanges could be arranged for. It is nothing more than an extension of the old community way of living, when everybody got together for barn raisings and husking bees. Each individual's special talent was called upon, and in one way or another all earned what they received.

Here I am in New York city for the annual party which I give to the staff of Todhunter school.

Democracy.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—(AP)—More than 10,000 teachers attending the meeting of the department of superintendents of the National Education Association in New Orleans were told tonight that a liberal democracy is necessary to save the United States from foreign "isms."

Another educator told them that many teachers had abandoned the idea that schools should "teach their lessons by heart."

Adult education leaders agreed to ask congress to give federal funds to the states for teaching persons over 16 years of age.

Teachers were counseled with the expression that though their pay was small their glory was great and their small salary at least had the element of certainty (sometimes).

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

THE FORCING TAKEOUT. A takeout of partner's opening suit bid of one, with exactly one trick more than is necessary in another suit, is forcing to game. Thereafter neither partner can allow the bidding to die until game (or a satisfactory penalty double) is reached.

Since a non-jump suit takeout which is forcing for one round is available, the forcing takeout should be made only with hands powerful enough to give virtual certainty of game and fair hope of a slam. Such hands may be recognized as follows:

1. Hands with three and a half honor tricks and a strong rebiddable suit.

2. Hands containing three and a half honor tricks with a bidable suit and such strong support for partner's suit that a double raise could have been made.

3. Hands containing four and a half or more honor tricks with any bidable (even a four-card) suit.

The jump forcing takeout may be at the range of two or of three, depending upon whether responder's suit is higher or lower in rank than opener's suit.

West opened the diamond king and, before any bid was made from dummy, declarer went into a huddle. Dummy's only quick entry was being removed before a heart trick could be established and, therefore, declarer faced the prospect of losing two diamonds and one heart. Obviously a diamond loss could be salvaged by a ruff in the dummy, but (and this is "reach") reached mammoth proportions! This depended on dummy's 10 of clubs standing up against an overruff by East. Standing on this, declarer was certain that was that West's four bid had been based on no less than six diamonds. East, in that case, would have no more than two, with the probability favoring one. With this diamond shortness it was likely that East was longer in clubs than was West, and this in turn strongly suggested that the missing jack of clubs would be in the East rather than in the West hand.

Having decided that the ruffing plan was unprofitable, declarer fell back on the only alternative, that of playing for an error. He won the first trick with dummy's diamond ace and rattled off eight trump tricks. A glance at the West hand will disclose the discarding difficulties into which West ran. Reducing to four cards, it was the most natural thing for declarer to hold the king, five of spades and the ace of hearts, which brought him down to a minus 100.

How could he tell that the declarer had started out with three diamonds and that he had not tried for a ruff in the dummy through fear of an overruff? Now, of course, all declarer had to do was to lead a diamond and, when he regained the lead with the spade ace, cash his third diamond for the fulfilling trick.

Service Group To Present Famous Lecturer on Antiques on March 12

It will prove a source of genuine satisfaction to lovers of antiques in Atlanta to learn that Mrs. E. Keyes, the distinguished editor and founder of the magazine Antiques, will lecture here on March 12, in the ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Keyes will be remembered pleasantly by those who heard her speak here last February, when she was presented by the Atlanta Junior League.

Mrs. Keyes is a leading authority in America on those various groups dear to the hearts of collectors of antiques—furniture, porcelains, silver and glass. His opinion is eagerly sought by other experts to settle points of uncertainty. Added to his profound knowledge is a wit and manner of speaking which go to make his talk educational and amusing.

Interest will be added to the announcement of his forthcoming lecture by the fact that he will be presented to the Service Group, who ably conducts the luncheon on Piedmont Drive, and will devote the proceeds of their untiring efforts to worthy charity. Tickets for the lecture may be secured at the Omnibus at 254 Peachtree street, or at the door of the ballroom, the Piedmont Driving Club on the day of the lecture.

PERKINS DRAFTS BILL FOR WAGES AND HOURS

Measure Would Control Industrial Pay, But Not That of Business.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(UP)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins disclosed tonight that she has drafted a tentative bill for flexible control of wages and hours in industry without setting up any control or protection of business as under NRA codes.

Her announcement came shortly after President Roosevelt had declared at a press conference that the administration's labor legislation program was in the "study stage." She said her bill would be submitted to the chief executive before it is turned over to congress.

"The bill," she said, "would set up minimum wage and maximum hour standards. It also covers general provisions for physical working conditions and accident prevention, the latter being much the same as contained in the general clauses for safety in the NRA codes."

The secretary said she had talked with Mr. Roosevelt, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and labor leaders on the subject.

"This legislation would have to do wholly with wages and wages," she said. "It is no way provides for any control or protection of business."

Joint supervision over labor and capital was one of the prime objectives of the national industrial recovery act.

"Our experience with NRA," Miss Perkins said, "certainly proved that the two phases are not dependent on each other. Fair trade practice legislation is quite a separate matter and under the NRA it was distinct in origin. There is no necessary relationship."

COMPACT ON TOBACCO LOSES IN COMMITTEE

Solons Believe Measure Called for Too Great a Reduction Here.

Representative Jones Barneron, of Burke county, chairman of the house agricultural committee, said the group voted down a proposed interstate tobacco control compact, 12-3, at a meeting late yesterday.

The vote came after J. B. Hutson, of Atlanta, told the speaker the Atlanta committee of the national tobacco compact campaign, to be held on Feb. 12, had been organized by the Jefferson Mortage Company, Dr. D. W. Wilson. The proposal, which was voted down, was to limit the amount of tobacco produced in the state to 12-3 of the amount produced in 1936.

The proposed compact, which Hutson told the assembly, will be approved by the state legislature to decide not only whether Georgia growers shall be a compact participant in 1937, but also whether the growers in Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina shall have such a program.

The compact was to have been a mutual agreement between the affected states before going into effect, under terms of the bill which the committee rejected for Georgia.

A recent delegation of growers from Georgia's tobacco belt appeared before Governor Rivers to present views on the measure, leaving the executive with the impression sentiment of growers was "about equally divided."

Under the compact, Georgia growers will appear at the assembly, but would neither advocate nor oppose passage of the bill.

The committee's vote, reported by Barneron, came in an executive session after Durden, Hutson and C. T. Hall, of Rockboro, N. C., spoke. Hall is chairman of the administrative committee for the four states involved.

Barneron's comment on the committee's action was that the chief reason for opposition grew from the compact bill, calling small farmers such a small percentage of acreage."

Mrs. Helen Williams Coxon, of Long county, one of the two women members of the assembly and a member of the committee, said: "We felt the compact called for too much reduction in acreage in Georgia in comparison to other states."
